John presented the capital projects list from the 2016 budget, and a list of other projects. He asked the Commission what they would like to get out of the workshop—what’s the goal. Commissioner Breeding suggested grouping the projects by location, and then by jobs/revenue goals, and to provide existing information such as site plans. John noted the Columbia River Research Lab is renewing its effort to relocate from Willard to Cascades Business Park. John said he’d like to discuss the Commission’s view on supporting tourism activities and the level of Port resources in that regard. There was discussion on how the Port plans regionally with our Skamania County EDC (Economic Development Council) and MCEDD (Mid-Columbia Economic Development District).

2. Tenants update: John presented a building layout for Windy River Research LLC at Wind River Business Park (WRBP). The County approved the zoning ordinance, quit claim deed, and boundary line adjustment required for cannabis processing there. The Port will pay the administrative and recording fees. Facilities staff is still working at Beacon Rock Golf Course (BRGC) cleaning up from winter storms tree damage.
